

LUNA WAVES BIOGRAPHY

Luna Waves – is Bedford-based singer/songwriter/multi-instrumentalist Rob Muir. Luna Waves is dark, dreamy, ethereal and atmospheric psych rock/dream pop.

Raised on Pearl Jam, Nirvana, Soundgarden and The Smashing Pumpkins, Rob considers himself a '90s kid at heart. However, he was exposed to a miscellany of influences – such as The Beatles, Pink Floyd and Jimi Hendrix – by his musician father, which have coloured and shaped the Luna Waves sound.

Further inspired by contemporary artists like Tame Impala, Radiohead, Jeff Buckley, Kurt Vile, Kevin Morby, Daniel Johns, Gemma Hayes, Wild Nothing, Beach House, Slowdive, Sunflower Bean, Wolf Alice and King Buffalo, Luna Waves traverses emotional and ethereal sad pop landscapes, all while wearing its heart on its sleeve.

Luna Waves released debut album Seafoam Dream (Part 1) on 27th July 2018, which was favourably received.

“A varied, dreamy and cinematic debut from an exciting UK talent, 8/10” – Americana UK

“An astoundingly arresting offering!” - ANR Factory

The album was produced by Chris Corney (The Ravines, The Quireboys) at his studio in Shefford, UK. The result is a collection of songs, which are laden with dark and dreamy guitars and synths, drawing from influences as diverse as folk rock, shoegaze, dream pop & psychedelic rock.

Luna Waves immediately followed Seafoam Dream (part 1) by releasing the single Ocean Warm on 9th November 2018. Luna Waves spent the time between 2018 - 2022 learning Ableton Live, which has enabled Rob to explore his influences and creativity more freely. During this time Luan Waves abandoned Seafoam Dream (Part 2) the originally planned follow up to Seafoam Dream (Part 1). Luna Waves will now release 2nd album Blood Moon on 25th March 2022. This will be followed with a collection of B-Sides that narrowly missed out on being included on the album, provisionally titled B(lood) Sides, release date TBA.
